According to the Nöldeke Chronology, the 114 Suras of the Qur'an are divided into four groupings:

48 Suras under the First Meccan Period

21 Suras under the Second Meccan Period

21 Suras under the Third Meccan Period

24 Suras under the Medinan Period

The Egyptian Edition, which was crafted 1924, is an adaptation of Nöldeke's work.

The Nöldeke Chronology institutes a sort of "canonical order" that comes to systematize the sequence of revelation in a more coherent and comprehensive arrangement, thus aiding in the scholarly (theological, literary, and historical) interpretation of the Qur'an.^[1] Although it does not have universal acceptance, the Nöldeke Chronology is used as a general guide within current scholarship.^[2]
